Abstract

Non surgical cosmetic techniques for the face are developing considerably, as they deliver good results using simple, non invasive, and atraumatic procedures. As people age, various forms of facial skin pigmentations occur, mixture of melasma, seborrheic keratoses, senile lentigo and wrinkles are present. I refer to this condition as Aging Complex Pigmentation or ACP. Of course, it is important to diagnosis and treat each condition accordingly. I think the concept of combined therapy for wrinkles. A therapy combining botulinum toxin, filler injections and lasers. This non-surgical therapeutic strategy brings patient satisfaction through a global approach to facial aging.

Key words: rejuvenation, aging complex pigmentation (ACP), injectable filler, Q-switched laser, laser toning.
